

Microphone installation at FOA

Bosch wireless Dicentis meeting system controlled via iPad

The Danish union, FOA, needed to update their meeting equipment in their headquarters in Copenhagen. In this context they chose a BOSCH Dicentis microphone solution.

The microphones are wireless table microphones with rechargeable batteries. Battery status can be easily viewed on the microphone, as the moderator can also see it on the control unit (in this case an iPad). FOA chose to buy a second battery for each microphone, so the system is always ready. In this setup, two meeting participants share each microphone, if the meeting room is full.

The microphones are distinguished by choosing the wifi channel, where there is the least traffic.
